"This terrific renovation and new addition makes wonderful use of the company's materials and processing throughout the design. It's so well-done and uncontrived, that one can't tell who pushed this material use – the client or the architect. The program is efficiently sandwiched into the space. Conventional details are used in a well-restrained fashion with elegant proportions and beautiful clerestory lighting. The featured materials play back and forth against the masonry backdrop. It is gratifying to see an industry invest the effort in creativity to showcase its products and administrative functions in such a pleasant place to work."
